EXHIBITION EXTENDED AT SMITHSONIAN’S NATURAL HISTORY MUSEUM

“Modern Mongolia: Reclaiming Genghis Khan” opened July 3, 2002 at the Smithsonian’s Museum of Natural History. Originally planned to be on view through October 25, the Museum has extended the exhibition date to December 8.

Using the traditional home of Mongolian nomads as backdrop, the exhibition invites visitors to experience 20th-century Mongolian life and discover Genghis Khan’s lasting legacy to his people. “Modern Mongolia” was organized by the University of Pennsylvania Museum of Archaeology and Anthropology with the support of the National Museum of Mongolian History, Ulaanbaatar, Mongolia. Many of the objects and archival photographs on display are on loan from the National Museum of Mongolian History.
