

Write a Field Note for the Archives

The key to good field notes is to write everything down! Imagine you're an archaeologist digging in the field:

Date: _____

Where are you digging? How old is your site? Who are you digging with? What kind of food are you eating in the field?

Draw a map of your excavation and show where you found artifacts:

Draw your favorite artifact:

Once you finish writing your field note, you can choose to keep it in your archaeological files or donate it to the archives!
